

I have been a subscriber of XM Satellite Radio for about a year. I enjoy the ability to listen to a variety of music and other programming without the intrusion of commercial messages. While I also listen to regular broadcast radio, I feel that there is room for both media sources. Recently, there have been a number of commercial messages on broadcast radio attacking the cost and content of satellite radio. I hope that the FCC will promote open, uncensored radio communications letting the consumer determine the viability of one medium over another.

In the spirit of free enterprise, let the market fight it out rather than let a few voices force a self-serving decision.
